Customer Reviews

This is a large colorful paperback put out by Quantum Press, London. They are a republishing house and as such there is no author listed. However someone knew what they were doing. This book has a little background and history, some suggested tools and materials and then how to do and ductuses. So far not unusual. The last half of this book is projects and this part is singular. Step by step with color illustrations, there is something for beginner to advanced. This needs to be shown here on the site so that the potential buyer can make a good decision. Good luck in your lettering.
